DISCIPLE-MAKING – LOVE IS THE STRATEGY

Rev. Kevin Loo

1 CORINTHIANS 13

We started the year with the theme Ground Zero. This was an initiative to rethink church - the how and why we do things.

We have refocused our church on _____, _____ and _____.

We have done the first two, teaching us to place Christ _____ and constantly go to the _____ and also opening up our circles to welcome our community to our tables.

In this season, I want to focus on Disciple-Making.

The culture we currently live in prefers her people to be _____ and not asking _____.

Submission without understanding is a virtue! But that is not empowering.

Discipleship all this while is about a _____, making everyone the same so to fit into certain ministries.

But today I want to propose to you that discipleship ought to be about us _____ others so that they may _____ who they really are – to realize their _____ and _____ in life!

If we think ministries are only restricted to what is available in church, then most of us would be _____ because there can only be so many singers, musicians, preachers, ushers, tech crew etc.

However, is our _____ determined by how many times we serve in a month?

Is our _____ only measured by the ministries we participate in? Certainly not!

My worth, my spiritual maturity and the expression of my faith are weighted by the cause I carry for the sake of the Cross! And that can happen beyond the four walls of this church!

Take time to find the cause that you are most passionate about.

What has God given you at this point of time that you think you can use to make this world a better place?

How do I begin?

How do I navigate through all the challenges I face?

Love is the strategy. Love always finds a way!
